The preparation of the 2002 Edition of the Guidebook for Environmental Permits in New Hampshire would not have been possible without the critical assistance of several groups and individuals. Sincere appreciation goes to those who deserve so much credit for successfully completing this very complex and multi-disciplined project on behalf of DES stakeholders.

- ❖ The staff of the DES Public Information and Permitting Unit who worked so tirelessly to make this document the most complete and timely guide available to meet the environmental permitting needs of the agency's constituents;
- ❖ The application review staff at DES for their timely submission of information, their insight into nuances or details important for applicants to address within the various application processes, the time and effort put forth in editing the initial and final drafts for each authorization type, and the reflection in the text of their collective experiences within the various DES permitting programs;
- ❖ The DES Senior Leadership Team for its important oversight and timely advice on the Guidebook's direction, scope, and content;
- ❖ Gretchen Rule, Administrator of the DES Legal Unit, for her many hours of meticulous editing of the final draft document and for asking the tough questions to ensure that the Guidebook was complete, accurate, and logically presented.
- ❖ Special appreciation goes to Tim Drew, who prepared this Guidebook, and Juliette Dages, now a staff member of the DES Waste Management Division, who worked so diligently to complete an earlier draft. Thank you, Tim and Juliette, for your fine workmanship and outstanding dedication.
